Howdy friends, the man who figured a fly lays about a million eggs will be able to prove it next month.

No Arrangement For Harding Possible

RICHMOND IN GALA ATTIRE

PRESIDENT IS UNABLE ACCEPT AN INVITATION TO RICHMOND

Making the plea that President Harding is having one of the most strenuous trips ever taken by any Chief Executive of the Nation, that all his energy must be conserved to go through with it and retain his health and that it is one of the rules that he never leaves his train until 9 o'clock, Walter Brown, personal representative of the President, has asked that the people of Richmond and Berkeley be satisfied with seeing him in Oakland or San Francisco.

Neither Richmond nor Berkeley will have the pleasure of entertaining the President, and he will not even see Berkeley. From his detaining point at Fourth and San Pablo, about the most disreputable appearing section of the East Bay district, he will be driven about Oakland and will take the 11 o'clock special ferry to San Francisco.

Harry W. Wernse, secretary of the Richmond Industrial Commission and Commercial Club, represented Mayor E. J. Garrard, at the Mayor's special reception, at the meeting of the Bay committee on reception to the President at the office of Mayor Ralph in San Francisco Monday afternoon.

Invited by Mayor Ralph to present Richmond's request Secretary Wernse told of the feasibility of the Presidential party detaining here and entering the automobiles for the trip of the East Bay cities, which would not consume any more time and result in his passing through all of them.

Brown then made his statement about conserving the health and the energy of the President and Secretary Charles Keeler of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce asked that the President party detain at the Santa Fe station there, and at least see the University.

"Would you wish to urge a stop, Mr. Wernse, that would break the President's rest and help take away from him the energy that he must retain to go through with his trip," asked Brown. "I know, neither you nor Mr. Keeler would."

"It is natural that these progressive cities like Richmond and others should want a visit from the President," said Gavin McNab, "but they will appreciate the situation and I am sure agree that their citizens should forgo this to help the President through."

Both Wernse and Keeler had to gracefully withdraw their requests that the President detain in their respective cities.

But at any rate it may be that a wire will be sent the President, asking that he and Mrs. Harding appear on the platform of their car and wave to the school children as they pass through Richmond, and it may be also that arrangements will be made to have a bouquet or some other gift presented Mrs. Harding.

Mrs. McCruden Knocked Down By An Auto

Shortly before 9 o'clock last evening Mrs. Catherine McCruden of the Raymond apartments was knocked down by an automobile at the corner of 23rd and Macdonald. She sustained injuries that necessitated her being taken to the Cottage hospital.

George Olsen of Potrero avenue was turning west on the avenue, when he accidentally struck Mrs. McCruden. Dr. U. S. Abbott, the attending physician, will not be able to ascertain the full extent of the injuries of the woman until this morning. While no bones were broken she is severely bruised about the body.

Three Divorce Decrees Granted By Alvarado

Three interlocutory decrees of divorce and one final decree were granted by Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado yesterday in the Superior Court here.

Josephine L. Wilson was granted a decree against Daniel L. Wilson on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Miss Blount is a charming young lady and has a wide circle of friends. She is employed in the white oil department of the Standard Oil, and was formerly with the Den O'Sweets. The bridegroom is also well known here.

At the conclusion of the dinner Rev. Frank Baker, the pastor, gave a talk on the relation of music to the work of the church and expressed his appreciation of both the orchestra and the choir. W. J. Osborne, W. J. Thompson, Mrs. M. R. Downing, and J. E. Hill each spoke, telling of what is being done and what is hoped to be done by the two organizations.

ETHEL BLOUNT IS CROWNED AS GODDESS OF BIG 4TH CELEBRATION

The big two day celebration of the Fourth of July was ushered in last night, with monster crowds on the streets, the shooting off of fireworks, an automobile parade, the crowning of the Goddess of Liberty, and two dances, one at Winters hall, and open air dancing on Ninth street.

The bakers at the different concessions were busy, the crowd was good natured, and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves.

The main part of the celebration takes place today, and will be carried out according to the set program, which is published in full in today's Record-Herald.

Crowning of Goddess
Miss Ethel Blount was crowned goddess of liberty to reign over Richmond Fourth of July fests at ceremonies last evening at the Nevin avenue band stand, before one of the largest crowds ever assembled there. The crown of gold leaves was placed upon the winner's head. Mrs. Florence M. Rundquist, who came second in the contest, was proclaimed maid of honor. The winners were complemented upon their splendid efforts.

Following several orchestral numbers, "The Star Spangled Banner" was played while the honored young ladies were escorted onto the platform.

Little Alan Anderson bore the crown which was placed in royal style upon the winners head, making Ethel Blount, goddess indeed. Mrs. Rundquist was then proclaimed maid of honor.

Prizes in the contest were then awarded, $150 in gold in a blue silk bag being presented Miss Blount and $100 in gold in a red silk bag being handed Mrs. Rundquist. Frank Rhoads, secretary treasurer of the affair had charge of the prizes.

The goddess was arrayed in her royal robes, and both she and her maid of honor carried shower bouquets of crimson roses with lillies of the valley, and red white and blue streamers.

Among those on the platform at the ceremonies, were Mrs. G. H. Blount, mother of the Goddess, who made a special trip from Turlock to be present, and Mrs. J. P. Blount.

John Solomon, Incognito

By Bedford Jones

John Philbrick nodded his shaggy head with a sigh. "Thought all along you might be a Canuck," he commented. "Funny how folks around here brag about Louisiana being settled by the French! It was really Canadians, Iberville and his Hudson Bay bunch—the same crowd hung together, same names and all. All Canadians born. Well, try this venison, now! I don't guess you've had much venison at sea."

John Philbrick Nodded His Shaggy Head.

"Mighty little," admitted Wrexham. "I'll not go back to sea for a while. I've no crew, and no particular use for one. I've got money enough to last a bit, enjoy life."

The talk languished. Outside, darkness shut down on everything. Out in the bay rode the schooner of Captain Wrexham, his riding lights dotted against the obscurity. The plantation house was entirely lighted by candles—not even a lamp anywhere, for old ways clung close. Seances, mostly of solid silver, were everywhere.

In the dining-room the two men partook of a dinner which would have driven Epicurus mad with desire. Crab bisque, turtle, venison, bayou oysters—a dozen things such as can be had in combination only from Louisiana cooks. And all the while the two men were studying each other, as they had done for days past, ever since Wrexham's arrival here.

John Philbrick was a tremendous man, broad and bearded like the "Moses" of Michelangelo, thewed in proportion. The gray, shaggy beard hid weak lines, however; somewhere in his face was an unsteadiness, a weakness. Like his guest, he was attired in white, but untidily so. His open shirt collar betrayed a powerful throat, his coat was flung on a nearby chair, his garments were not at all spotless.

Wrexham, on the contrary, was something of a dandy. His whites were tailored. In his snowy cravat glowed a small black pearl, set below the luxuriant, curly brown beard, which was trimmed square and brusque. His eyes, somewhat protuberant, were pleasantly wrinkled at the corners, after the fashion of men who look much into the open depths of sky and sea.

About this sea captain was something pulsing, baffling. In the carriage of his head was an aggressive challenge, in his sharp look a brusqueness, yet the man was inwardly troubled. His thoughts seemed ever reaching backward, as though he were living through past scenes and days.

John Philbrick felt this oddity. At times his bright eyes, half hid beneath their shaggy brows, would dart a probing glance at his guest. He asked no questions. He knew that any man who showed up here along the bayous, without a crew but with a marvelous boat, and who was content to sit and dream, had some inward confusion in his soul. It was perfectly evident that this Wrexham was no virginal young man, either.

Wrexham betrayed himself often, perhaps from carelessness. Perhaps it was the refinement, the silver and glass and wine, that worked on him. A shadow in his eyes would linger hauntingly; his face would shift into hard, harsh lines on cue. One fanned that this man's crew had left him with good reason. He bore a callous air, seeming unmoved by anything that chanced, as though if he so desired his experiences might astonish any one.

Something of this crept into his talk. "I don't like it," he said, apropos of nothing. "I'm used to action, and up in these seas it's a run so. A run so, and no mistake!" Philbrick pushed over the whisky decanter, and laughed.

"You can get your action," he said. "Go shoot up that devil, young Mac-

John Philbrick nodded his shaggy head with a sigh. "Thought all along you might be a Canuck," he commented. "Funny how folks around here brag about Louisiana being settled by the French! It was really Canadians, Iberville and his Hudson Bay bunch—the same crowd hung together, same names and all. All Canadians born. Well, try this venison, now! I don't guess you've had much venison at sea."

"You don't mean they'd get after you? For shooting a black?" Philbrick shrugged his wide shoulders. "All things are possible. An odd situation, this one! Did you ever see anything to beat it?"

"Often," said Wrexham calmly. "Often. If you want to see queer things, go pearlin', or after bird skins, or even shell. Why, I remember—"

He broke off, smiled thinly at his glass, fingered his beard. After a moment:

"Dashed run go, down there! I owed a man a debt, d'ye see? Owed him a good deal—passed my word on it. Well, I had the chance to pay it back. In order to pay it back, I had to play a rotten trick on another crowd. I managed it, but it left a bad taste. Two men and a woman, they were. I went away from there in a hurry. I can tell you! Didn't know 'em, never saw 'em before or since. Left a bad taste just the same."

The jerky speech was followed by silence. Suddenly Wrexham went on, thinking aloud:

"I'll make it up some day," he said thoughtfully. "Only I've never had the chance. And I've been lookin' for one, off and on."

"Come in on this deal," offered Philbrick, watching intently. "You know the odds. You know the situation here. If they get me who's to watch out for the girl? Nobody. Throw in with me."

Prieze Winners Gives Theory Of Luck

"What a lovely vase, Helen. I didn't know you'd been shopping. Thought you'd been to a party."

"So I have, my dear. I won first prize and this is it."

"Why, I thought you said you dreaded to go because you hadn't played cards for so long."

"I did dread it at first. I haven't played much for two years and you know we brushed up a bit with the Jones, last night but I had terrible luck."

"And today you walked off with the first prize. Well, you must have played with a poor bunch of players."

"Not so bad. I can't admit it and be modest I know, but I did well, really. I don't pat myself on the back though, as it was merely beginner's luck. Next time I'll probably have a very low score."

"Well, the guiding hand of fate certainly looked out for you today. That vase will look lovely on the mantle, too. Just fits in."

"But really do you know what I think was really responsible for my luck?"

"Haven't the ghost of an idea."

"This new dress. Everyone raved over it so I got a lot of confidence in myself that I didn't feel at first and I just sailed through the game."

Fistic Bouts At Emeryville Today

Jimmy Duffy, Pacific Coast welter-weight champion, and Bert Collina, holder of the coast middleweight and light heavyweight titles, yesterday wound up their training for their bout at the ball park at Emeryville this afternoon. Both boys are fit as a fiddle and promise to put up one of the greatest four-round battles ever staged in the state.

Both fighters will weigh in this morning at Kaplan-Soules, Oakland, at 8 o'clock. Duffy was one pound under the 147-pound limit yesterday and will enter the ring close on to that mark. Collina had to work out yesterday to get down to weight and is confident of making 147-pounds this morning. During the seven hours that will intervene until he enters the ring, Collina will pick up weight rapidly so that he will probably scale about 155 pounds when the fight starts.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a four-round fight is expected to witness Oakland's "Little Battle of the Century." Promoter Tommy Simpson has made preparations to handle around 20,000 fans, and advance ticket sales indicate that the crowd on hand will approach this number.

The complete card follows:
Jimmy Duffy vs. Bert Collina.
Frankie McCann vs. Young Brown.
Johnny Farr vs. Dynamite Murphy.
Johnny Farr vs. Eddie London.
Pat Lester vs. Jimmy Dime.
Bobby Burns vs. Louie Garcia.
Mickey Rockson vs. Ray Kronick.

"Good for you. If that's the case I'm so glad you visited Cherry's reduction sale. We are a vase ahead and you got a lovely dress at a wonderful bargain. So fashionable, too." They have a splendid store for the men folk; too at 528 13th street.—Adv.

Illumination and Decorations

With Old Glory flying from every building on Macdonald avenue, the decorations this year are more pretentious than Richmond has ever seen before. Red white and blue hunting and flags of all sizes are lending color to the city, and the concessions of various organizations artistically decorated are especially bright spots in the general effect. Colored lights on two buildings, Winters and the Elks, were a beautiful sight last evening. This is the first time in the history of the city that this has been done, strings of colored lights being run around the outline of the building in a most artistic way.

Street Dance Draws Crowd

One of the most popular attractions of the carnival last night was the street dance on Ninth street. A string of big lights overhead supplied plenty of illumination and with the happy spirit of freedom which characterizes the Fourth, many dancers stepped into the light and enjoyed the excellent music.

The street was closed to traffic and hundreds of people crowded about the space looking on.

INVENTOR WILL DISPLAY DOBLE STEAM AUTO ON THURSDAY HERE

Richmond is to enjoy a distinct advantage over many of her sister communities when a demonstration of the Doble Steam Motor Car is conducted at 1206 Macdonald Avenue, Thursday, July 5th, with Abner Doble, inventor of the car and president of the San Francisco manufacturing company, in the driver's seat.

Mr. Doble recently exhibited his latest four-passenger sport phaeton at the San Francisco auto show, where it was hailed as the sensation of that motor event. A late 1923 model stripped chassis of this de luxe car is scheduled to arrive in Richmond early Thursday, July 5, and give free demonstration rides until 9 p. m., Saturday, July 14.

"In less than 30 seconds after the ignition switch is turned on," declares F. G. Cox, fiscal agent of the corporation who was here yesterday in connection with the demonstration, "there is a full head of steam in the boiler."

"Many automobiles have been instantaneous successes," said Mr. Cox, "but the enthusiastic public reception of the Doble Steam Motor Car, when it first appeared, has never been equalled in any other instance."

"In 1917 the story of Abner Doble's revolutionary achievement began to appear in the most natural and spontaneous way. It was news in the best newspaper sense of the word. Newspapers, magazines and technical publications pictured Abner Doble and the Doble Steam Motor Car."

"Then, just about automobile show-time, came the national advertising—not much of it—less than $10,000 worth all together, and yet it was so dominant that it carried home. With even a revolutionary accomplishment, the results were amazing. The Doble was the greatest sensation that the New York Show ever experienced. The first show, the first advertisement—brought the results.

Two and a half days later the post-office refused to deliver the mail, and it became necessary to send cars for it.

"The number of letters received soon passed the 50,000 mark. Seven hundred telegrams arrived from dealers or from those wanting to buy stock in the company. The biggest dealers came direct to the factory with bank references ready to do business. Orders for more than 11,000 cars were received in 90 days."

"Then, when just eleven cars had been completed, the United States War Priority Board stopped manufacture for the period of the war, because of the need for steel in vital war-time industries."

"Now, after five years spent solely in refining the sensational car of 1917, Abner Doble is again manufacturing the Doble Steam Motor Car."

"Today Doble Steam Motor Cars are again in production being built by the Doble Steam Motors Corporation in San Francisco."

"Transportation has come to be a vitally important subject in our modern life, and the opportunity to witness a demonstration of the hitherto-impossible facts which the Doble accomplishes with perfect ease, is one which people here will not want to miss."

The DOBLE STEAM MOTOR CAR

Will be in

RICHMOND

Thursday, July 5th

At 1206 Macdonald Avenue

10 A. M. —TO— 9 P. M.

THE DOBLE STEAM MOTOR CAR is so astonishingly superior to any other automobile that it cannot be measured by the same standards!

For years engineers have dreamed of a perfect automobile—a car that would be simple in construction and operation, economical to drive, silent and luxurious at all speeds. A car of few moving parts, without the bother of self starter, clutch and gear shift, a car that would thread its way through traffic with the ease of a pedestrian, a car the success of which would be ABSOLUTELY ASSURED, because it would IMPROVE TRANSPORTATION.

Today Abner Doble has perfected such a car in his master creation and has successfully harnessed the world's greatest motive power—STEAM—to automotive transportation in a way that bids fair to completely revolutionize the standards of the motor world!

Speed

The car is geared one-and-a-half to one and has a road speed of 75 miles per hour in reserve.

Its acceleration is simply astonishing. It is possible to attain 60 miles per hour from a standing start in a shorter space of time than any other car operating today.

Simplicity

The entire power plant contains but 36 moving parts. There is no clutch, gear shift, self-starter, transmission or universal joints. The car is controlled by the operation of a single lever; starts from absolutely "cold" in 30 seconds by merely turning on an electric switch.

Economy

The Doble car burns kerosene, distillate or gasoline without adjustment. Wonderful oil economy—500 miles to the pint—or 4,000 miles per gallon—2,000 to 3,000 miles on one filling of water—80% increased tire mileage.

True, these are astounding facts, but the Doble car performs in accordance with every one of these statements.

Durability

The power plant of the Doble car carries a guarantee of 100,000 miles. At 35 miles per hour the Doble motor is turning but 545 revolutions per minute, compared with the average gas car motor, turning 1,800 to 2,200 revolutions at the same speed. Vibration is eliminated in the Doble car.

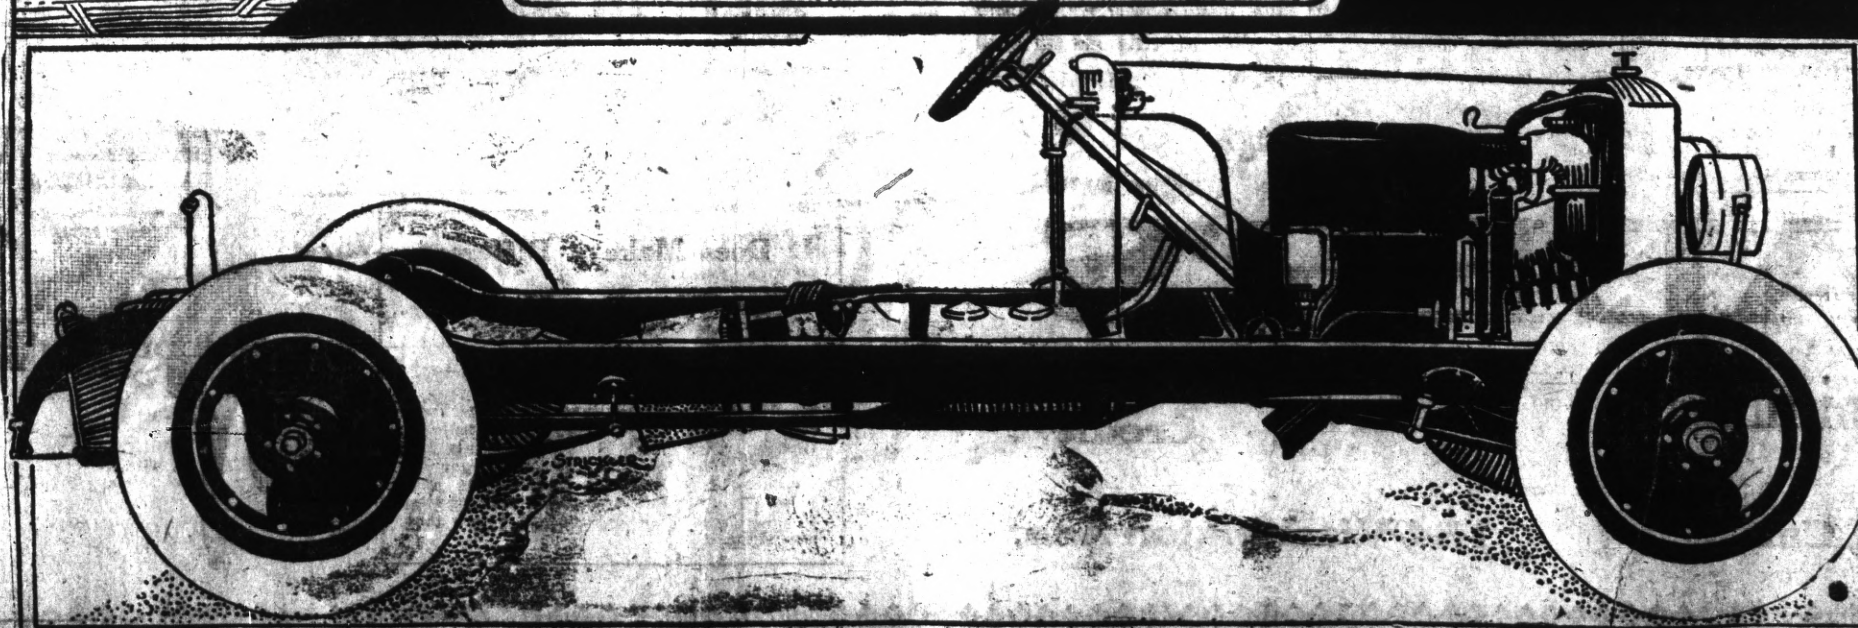

Climbing Ability

The stock Doble carries a steam pressure of 750 pounds. The locomotive that rushes the "Owl" to San Francisco requires 200 pounds pressure. Steam pressure is irresistible, and responds most startlingly on the steepest hill. In short, the Doble Steam Motor is completely beyond comparison for hill work.

Slamming the offerings of two Barrel House pitchers for eight timely hits, the All Standards came to life last night and trounced Frank Gordon's crew by a 7 to 4 score, and thereby clinching out of the basement. Each team used two pitchers, the Barrel House outfit working Buttschach and Steengraffe in a vain effort to stop the tearing All Standards, while Dolan and Kersten toiled on the mound for the winners.

Fodder Dolan was suffering from a broken hand that is not quite mended, but managed to hold the Barrel House hitters to three runs in four innings. Gene Kersten took his place on the hilltop in the fifth and stopped the losers in the last three frames.

Paris Buttschach was in hot water from the very start but managed to weather the storm until the sixth inning when two consecutive singles sent him to the showers. Steengraffe was sent in to do the pitching but was unable to check the rejuvenated All Standards.

The All Standards got busy in the opening round and gathered tally when Charley Friene smashed a long drive to right center, which bounced over the fence for a home run.

Another All Standard run trickled across in the second spasm when Rudy Merani walked, went to second on Bartoli's sacrifice, advanced to third on a passed ball and counted when Pat McDonough singled over second.

The Barrel House aggregation forged into the lead in the fourth inning when they tallied three runs. After Sonny Vianni had rolled out, Fitzgerald drew a pass and stole second. Hal Nelson walked and Humphreys singled to center, scoring Fitzgerald. Schimpff followed with another single to count Hal Nelson, and Connick filed to Schulte. Humphreys brought in the final run of the inning on Allen's single through short.

The All Standards deadlocked the score in their half of the four when Pat McDonough walked, went to second on Dolan's infield out and spiked the flash on Dago Vianni's long single to left.

Going on a hitting spree in the fifth, the All Standards gathered enough tallies to sew up the contest. Snively opened the inning with a single to center and went to third when Schulte shot a single to right. Steengraffe took the mound at this juncture and fanned Peters, but Merani sent a grounder to Allen, who threw home too late to get Snively. Bartoli crashed a long double to left, scoring Schulte. Merani was thrown out at home on McDonough's roller to Connick, but Kersten came through with a double to right center, scoring Bartoli and McDonough.

The losers gathered their final marker in the seventh inning. Connick gained a life on Peter's boot of his had-hit grounder, advanced a peg on Allen's infield out and scored while Peters was throwing out Rubke at first. Roy Nelson and Vianni gave hope to the Barrel House supporters by hitting singles, but Fitzgerald was an easy out. Kersten to Marani.

The score:

All Standards	AB. R. H. PO. A.
Vianni, 3b.	4 0 1 2 1
Friene, 2b.	3 1 1 2 0

S. O. LEAGUE STARS TO PLAY CONCORD TODAY

The stage is all set for the game to be played between the Standard Oil All Stars and the Concord club of the Three C League this afternoon at the First street park as part of the big Fourth of July celebration. The contest will start at 2:30 o'clock and one of the largest crowds ever in attendance at a game here is expected to jam the park.

The Concordites are at present tied for first place in the Three C League and are considered a mighty capable aggregation of ball tossers. Firement Jones, who performed brilliantly for the Calatone Waters in the Oakland Mid-winter League, will do the heaving for the visitors, and if the fireman is right the Twilight League stars will be in for a tough time.

The lineups for the contest will be as follows:
Concord—Jones, p.; Sheehan, 1b.; Maddox, 2b.; Crenna, ss.; Fisher, 3b.; Ladda, lf.; McKeabe, cf.; Petrozetti, rf.; Nunes, Moreno and C. Crenna, utility.

Richmond—Roberts, c.; Dimmock, p.; Antry, 1b.; Snively, 2b.; Lamarra, ss.; Zimmerman, 3b.; Schaller, lf.; Johnson, cf.; Cullers, rf.

'The Go Getter' Big Success At T. and D. Theater

Two popular screen players who have not met since they appeared in Kalem pictures in 1911, are members of the cast of the Paramount-Cosmopolitan production of "The Go Getter", which will be on view at the Richmond T. & D. Theater today and tomorrow. Frederick Santley, who has been featured in many of Broadway's biggest successes, and William J. Sorelle, one of the first leading men in pictures, are the two players in question.

Santley has not appeared before the camera since 1911, confining his work since then to the musical stage, and Sorelle has not been seen on the screen in four years, his last screen appearance having been with Marguerite Clark. In "The Go Getter" Santley plays the role of an aviator, and Sorelle appears as a doctor.

T. Roy Barnes and Seena Owen are featured in the cast which includes also William Norris, Tom Lewis, Louis Wolheim, John Carr and Frank Currier. The picture was directed by E. H. Griffith.

Six Boxing Bouts At Point Opera House on Friday

The great program of sports to be staged here this week will be concluded on Friday evening with the regular fight show at the Point Richmond Opera House. A first-class card of bouts has been arranged that promise to compare favorably with the excellent matches reeled off in the initial fight show several weeks ago. J. H. Nederman, fight promoter, has a number of fast boys on the program who will give the fans a good run for their money.

Low Dennison, 18-year-old Denver lightweight, who made a big hit with the local fans in the initial show, will trade blows with Al Walker, colored lightweight of Oakland, in the special event. The main event will bring together Mickey O'Donnell of Martinez and Joe Bell of Pittsburg.

The remainder of the card includes:
Charlie Sims of Albany vs. Kid Brooks of Richmond.
Johnny McFarland of Albany vs. Bert Seally of Martinez.
Jack Davis of Oakland vs. Young Mike Gibbons of Oakland.
Willie Burns vs. Jimmy Kelly.
